

This gentleman, in returning from the Coliseum, has lost his way. Strange as it may seem, the streets in Boston being so Mathematically Straight and easy to find, he has forgotten the name of the Street in which he had taken Board, and his Wife is indulging in a few not very Complimentary Remarks.